Administrative changes announced

The addition of an executive vice president and the redesigning of the college's administrative organization has been approved by the Board of Trustees.

Joining the SJCC staff as executive vice president is Father James F. McCabe, formerly chief librarian at Saint Joseph's College in Rensselaer. Father McCabe spent one year on the SJCC campus while conducting an in-depth survey of the SJCC library. His survey was paramount in the development of the proposed new Learning Center.

In naming Father McCabe to the executive vice presidency, the Board of Trustees also approved the following title assignments:

RAYMOND J. KRAJEWSKI, from academic dean to vice president-academic affairs.

FATHER WILLIAM EILERMAN, from treasurer to vice president-finance.

HARRY J. CANE, from director of development to vice president-development.

FATHER RONALD J. SCHIML, from director of the foundation to director of development.

Subsequently Miss Carol Walter was promoted from business manager to treasurer.

In revising the bylaws of the Board of Trustees to accommodate the addition of an executive vice president, the Board noted that Father McCabe shall directly assist John M. Lefko, president, in operational areas in order to broaden activities of the college development program.

A native of Nebraska, Father McCabe attended the Society of Precious Blood seminaries and earned his degree from Saint Joseph's College. He was ordained in 1958 and received his master's degree from the University of Dayton.

He was head librarian at Rensselaer for six years.

Calumet College seeks own charter

A nine-member committee is being selected to study and evaluate the possibility of Saint Joseph's Calumet College obtaining its own charter and operating completely separate from Saint Joseph's College.

The two colleges now function under the charter of Saint Joseph's College corporation.

The nine-member committee — three from Calumet College, three from Saint Joseph's College, Rensselaer, and three from the Society of Precious Blood — will conduct the study this fall with the intent of "effectuating" the separation in the near future.

The committee's recommendations are to be presented to the Board of Directors of the college corporation prior to January 1, 1974.

Representing Calumet College on the committee will be L. Cosby Bernard, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Frank W. Mader, Trustee, and Father John M. Lefko, President. All are Calumet College representatives on the Board of Directors.

The movement for a separate charter for Calumet College came on August 9 when the Board of Trustees approved a resolution requesting the Board of Directors to effectuate the separation.

It is expected that the committee will meet in the early fall to consider the proposal.

WEARING their halos and proclaiming that "I am a Saint", Duane Dedelow, Victor Kirsch and Larry Dougherty get ready for the annual Saints Outing to be held September 11.

Mike Nau named co-chairman for NEW HORIZONS

D. N. (Mike) Nau, president of Hammond Machine Works and a member of the Board of Trustees, has been named co-chairman for the $2 million New Horizons fund campaign.

He succeeds C. D. (Duke) Tully, publisher of the Post-Tribune of Gary and also a Board member, who is transferring to Wichita, Kansas. Mr. Tully will continue as a member of the Board of Trustees.

Frank W. Mader, vice president-purchasing for Allied Structural Steel Company of Hammond, continues as co-chairman.

The New Horizons program has been bolstered by receipts from the mid-summer Calumet Ethnic Folk Festival and from such gifts and pledges as $5000 from the IBM corporation and is at the $1.1 million mark. Illinois Bell Telephone Company has pledged $15,000 to the campaign.

Under the direction of Emil Krejci, New Horizons has continued to screen the alumni-made sound-slide film presentation and to date has shown the program more than 100 times. It is available for showing to groups upon request and can be arranged for by calling Mr. Krejci's office at the college.

The Executive Committee recently named Edward Repay of Hammond to represent it in negotiating for additional properties as initially programmed in the New Horizons development plan. He succeeds the late Vetold Butkus. The committee has been negotiating for five additional properties adjacent to the college complex.

IRVING L. LEWIN, secretary-treasurer of Lewin's Inc., and for 12 years chairman of the college's Board of Trustees, is presented a "Friends Award" by Father John M. Lefko during annual outing for friends of the college.

A $5000 gift from IBM to New Horizons was presented by Paul D. Johns, Chicago branch manager, to Father John M. Lefko and Chester J. Wleklinski, commercial division chairman. James H. Hill, manager of community relations is at right.

THIS TWO-STORY apartment building, acquired through New Horizons early this year, has been razed to provide additional parking facilities on the campus. The building was located on the northeast corner of 148th and Olcott Avenue.

WUEST HALL, a faculty office building, which was remodeled and redesigned from an apartment building one year ago, joins the color combination for Saint Joseph's Calumet College as it receives a coat of charcoal gray paint. The building is just south of the theatre.

Saint Joseph's Calumet College, for the fifth consecutive year, kept expenses to a minimum and reported a small net increase in funds.

Father William Eilerman, vice president-finance, said a preliminary audit showed that a surplus of $47,135 was evidenced for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Father Eilerman said the college had total sources of funds of $1,512,643 while expenses amounted to $1,465,508.

The monies do not include contributions paid into the New Horizons program nor monies expended by New Horizons, which maintains separate accounting operations.

Auditors reported income of $1,159,119 from tuition, $78,922 from fees and bookstore net sales, $31,280 from interest, rents and similar sources, and contributions of $171,947.

Major expenses included: Salaries and fringes, $869,410; scholarships, $36,203; interest expense, $9,347; and other operating, $305,190. Other major expenses included $64,968 for additions and improvements to plant and equipment; $37,323 for funded debt retirement; $8,737 for increase in loan fund; $9,377 in restricted bank account for capital expenditures.

During the fiscal year, New Horizons made payments of $105,000 for properties to be developed for college use.

Co-op Education program expands

Seventeen per cent of the 1973 graduates of SJCC were enrolled in the college's Cooperative Education program, according to a year-end report from A. H. Hayes, director.

Hayes said 40 of the 239 graduates participated in the program which is conducted in cooperation with business and industries and governmental agents throughout the Calumet area. He said the percentage is the same as 1972 when 44 of 246 graduates were affiliated with the Cooperative Education program.

The report shows that 75 students were entered in the CE program during the 1972-73 school year bringing the five-year total to 217. The Cooperative Education program was initiated in 1968.

Hayes said 44 new companies entered the program last year increasing the total number of participating companies to 134.

Students may participate in the program either for an Associate Degree (2 years) or a 4-year Bachelor Degree.

Through the Cooperative Education program, a student may earn credits toward his degree through affiliation with one of the participating companies by working full or part time. Ideally, the program provides for class attendance one semester and employment the second semester. However, it is flexible to accommodate both students and employers under a variety of conditions.

College placement aids new graduates

There was some evidence that the job market for college graduates improved somewhat during the past year and that the job of college placement officers eased up.

Dr. Moses Gordon, director of placement for SJCC, reported that twenty companies conducted 235 interviews on the SJCC campus, a decline of 21 from a year ago when the job market for college graduates was down.

With better employment opportunities, students were able to seek out and find employment without utilizing the placement office services.

Dr. Gordon reports that 80 graduates utilized the college placement office and that more than half of them received job offers in the process. That represents a decline from 113 student participants a year ago.

In his fiscal report, Dr. Gordon points out that the peak recruiting year was 1970-71 when 267 student interviews were conducted.

Science teachers on college campus

MORE THAN 100 elementary and high school science teachers from ten midwestern states attended a two-day environmental seminar at SJCC this summer. The program, which included field trips to several area industrial plants, was initiated and directed by Joseph C. Jankowski, associate professor of biology.

from the president

I can't recall when I looked forward to the start of a new academic year as I do in anticipation of the 1973 fall term. It has been a really invigorating summer and I am as eager for the new school year to start as I was when I first came to Calumet College six years ago.

There are a number of reasons for my optimistic outlook for 1973.

First of all, I am very pleased with the prospects for our enrollment. There appears to be a resurgence of interest among high school graduates to attend college. We are also embarking upon a few new programs which I feel will be invaluable to our student body and the community.

Father
John Lefko

I am looking forward to working with Father McCabe, our new executive vice president, and I know he will be a most valuable asset to the college.

I am convinced that we shall have the finest faculty ever when classes open in September and we have always felt that our faculty is a most vital key in the success and growth of the college.

But there is evidence that the 1973 school year will be an exceptionally active one for all of us at the college, from our Trustees right down through the student body.

The success of our New Horizons campaign has been told many times and we see the time when we shall have reached our goal. And with the attaining of our goal, vast improvements in our facilities will be forthcoming — something we have all long looked forward to.

We have no crystal ball with which to view the future, but from here in my windowless office I see a bright sky and envision a bright future for Calumet College.

Dvorske on staff

John J. Dvorske III, a 1964 graduate of Saint Joseph's Calumet College, will serve on the faculty this fall as a lecturer in Retail Management. Dvorske has a master's degree in business administration from DePaul University. Dvorske and his wife, Kathleen, and three sons reside in Munster.

"Angels" to operate Flea Market

The Saint Joseph's Calumet College FLEA MARKET, which was operated in the spring and early summer in conjunction with the Calumet Ethnic Folk Festival, will reopen in September at 817 Chicago Avenue in East Chicago.

The Flea Market netted in excess of $2,000 while operating two days a week and through the three-day festival.

Mrs. Raymond Krajewski, Mrs. Joseph C. O'Neill and Mrs. Harry Cane are co-ordinating the reopening as designated representatives of the wives of members of the Board of Trustees. They will be assisted by Mrs. Robert Pastrick and Mrs. Gus Tsouchlos.

They have designated themselves as "Angels" as an offshoot of the Saints organization which was established five years ago to finance various construction and improvement projects on the Calumet College campus.

The "Angels" propose to operate the Flea Market, or resale store, each Thursday of the month starting September 13. Trustees' wives and other volunteers will function as collectors and salesmen on a scheduled basis. It is anticipated that the store will be open through the month of May.

Persons having goods to contribute for resale are invited to contact any one of the Trustees' wives or to call the college's development office. Pickup service will be arranged.

It is hoped that contributed goods will be in good condition suitable for resale and that such goods will be marked to identify the donor. Contributed goods are tax deductible.

THE Calumet College Flea Market will reopen in September and will be open each Thursday through May.

Lowry on staff

Daniel P. Lowry, a 1964 graduate of Saint Joseph's Calumet College and a teacher in the Munster school system, has assumed part-time teaching responsibilities at Calumet College.

Lowry is teaching History of the Labor Movement in the fall term. The course is a part of the Associate Degree program in Labor Studies which the college initiated a year ago.

He has a master's degree in labor economics from Loyola University.

LAMB was served daily throughout the 3-day folk festival and is shown while being barbecued on the open spits.
